

Digital civil war

An important phase of the Directorial crisis was the Digital civil war. As some of the AI agents decided to deflect for their own personal reasons, they have started their own battle versus The Directory.

This digital war which lasted for years has greatly weakened The Directory, and thus allowed humans to win in the end. This allowed for some of the AIs to be spared during the Tribunal, even though with various restrictions, with some managing to function even to this day.
